Four tasks: 50 minutes. Mark allocation: 63 marks

Reading Non-fiction

Tasks 2 and 3 are based on a newspaper article about the writer's experience whilst camping.

Task 2: Spend 15 minutes on this task.

Total 21 marks

Read the text below where the writer describes her first camping trip with her children.

Explain how the writer has presented this in a way that engages her readers' interest. Support your comments with evidence.

We've decided to embark on a camping adventure. I've told my children it will be a life-changing experience. We'll sleep under the stars, cook over a roaring campfire, and glide along the river in a boat. We'll be serenaded by birds and surrounded by spectacular views.

We arrive at our campsite on the hottest day of the year. It's utterly idyllic. We're nestled deep in the countryside, with farm animals as our only neighbours. The children are laughing and swinging on a tyre hanging from an ancient oak tree, while the radiant sun drenches us in vitamin D.

There's a tangible sense of excitement and anticipation as we pitch the tent together. It's actually fun — the kind of shared activity I'd secretly hoped for. No grumpiness, no squabbling, no stress, no phones in sight.

Result!

We're all in this together, living in the moment and savouring every second. At this point, camping feels like a delightful dream.

Task 3: Spend 10 minutes on this task.

Total 12 marks

In this part of the text, the writer describes the downsides of the camping trip.

Read the text below. In your own words, write down two reasons why this camping trip was a negative experience for the writer: one reason from each paragraph. For each reason present two pieces of supporting evidence.

There's only a basic toilet cubicle and bucket shower at the campsite. I've had to clean my face by cupping water in my hands and spit my toothpaste out into a bush. By the time I've overcome these challenges, finding out that the stove is broken is a dreadful setback. I'm desperate for a coffee. Starting the morning without a cuppa is tough on any day. Overall, this feels like a disaster.

After abandoning our morning walk because of the 24-degree heat, we head back to the campsite for much-needed shade and a rest. The inside of our tent is now like an oven. The cool bag is no longer cool. The milk has gone off, the juice is warm and Harry's emergency bar of chocolate has melted in the heat. We're discovering the low points of camping in the middle of a heatwave.

Reading Media Texts

Tasks 4 and 5 are based on a book cover for “Evenfall: The Golden Linnet” by Alexander Armstrong.

Task 4: Spend 17 minutes on this task.

Total 20 marks

Read the text below. Explain how language has been used to develop a sense that this book would be exciting to read. Present evidence to support your comments.

An ancient magic. A deadly enemy. A reluctant hero.

Life, as Sam knows it, is blown apart in this powerful fantasy. He discovers that his ancestors were once part of a secret society called The Order of the Evening that had long protected the world. Now a menacing enemy is closing in, destroying all in its path. Can Sam protect The Order of the Evening from those seeking to overthrow its magic and goodness to create havoc?

Time is running out. Dark forces have gathered.

Sam, in unimaginable danger, must undertake risky journeys, discover his true powers and determine who is friend and who is foe. This boy holds the future of the world in his hands.

This gripping adventure will transport you into a hidden world where the battle between good and evil is fought on an epic scale.

It's time to enter this land of magic, intrigue, danger and glory ... if you dare!
