Ireland is plagued with problems these days: the housing crisis, the drugs problem as well as the high cost of living. The housing crisis is a cause of great concern. The number of homeless people is increasing week by week.

Moreover, the drugs problem is getting worse all over the country. Some people start taking soft drugs because they believe they aren't dangerous; however, they can become addicted to them.

Alcohol is present at most social events, but we must remember that it is also a drug and can have a major effect on a person's health and behaviour.

Problem drinking leads to antisocial behaviour. There are many stories of attacks, injuries and even killing on our streets due to drinking. It is a serious crisis.
